

The City of Lincoln

The Lincoln cathedral is one of the historical buildings. It is located in the north of the city; it is a building of wonderful beauty! It is also decorated with stained glass windows. The Lincoln cathedral was once the largest building in the world and it is famous for its imp.

Legend has it that during the building of the Angel Choir, The Lincoln Imp, sitting on top of pillar, started throwing stones and rocks at an Angel who had been sent to stop him causing more mayhem. In a moment of anger, she turned him into stone where he sat, and there you will find him to this day.

He sits cross-legged, complete with devil's horns, on top of the pillar overlooking the Angel Choir – a constant reminder of how good will always triumph over evil!

The cathedral is steeped in over 900 years of British history, it is located in Bailgate area of the City. It was ordered to be built by William the Conqueror.
